PRIVACY POLICY

Your privacy is important to us and maintaining your trust and confidence is a high priority. Attorneys have been and continue to be bound by stringent professional standards of confidentiality. Therefore, we have always protected your right to privacy, but we are required to post this privacy policy (the "Privacy Policy") with regard to personal information about you that we obtain and how we keep that information secure.

By using our website and/or providing us with your information, you agree to this privacy policy. We reserve the right, in our discretion, to change, modify, add or remove portions of this Privacy Policy at any time and from time to time, without prior notice to you. All revisions will be posted on our website. We urge you to review the Privacy Policy for changes. Your continued use of any of this website means that you accept any changes.

Nonpublic Personal Information We Collect

We collect nonpublic personal information about you that is provided to us by you or obtained by us with your authorization or consent. Additionally, our website may use cookies and similar techniques and devices to differentiate you from other users. Such techniques allow us to compile aggregate data about site traffic and site interaction so that we can offer better site experiences and tools in the future. Cookies do not allow us to gather any personal information about you and we do not generally store any personal information that you provided to us in your cookies.

WE DO NOT DISCLOSE ANY PERSONAL INFORMATION ABOUT OUR CLIENTS OR FORMER CLIENTS TO ANYONE, EXCEPT AS PERMITTED BY LAW AND ANY APPLICABLE STATE ETHICS RULES. We do not disclose any nonpublic personal information about current or former clients obtained in the course of representation of those clients, except as expressly or impliedly authorized by those clients to enable us to effectuate the purpose of our representation or as required or permitted by law or applicable provisions of codes of professional responsibility or ethical rules governing our conduct as lawyers.

Additional privacy policies may apply and are provided to our clients based on the type of services we provide
